
I CAN'T SLEEP SO FALL AWAKE FOR ME...

By Austin Losorelli

Delusions of Grandeur caused by Egotism to the highest degree, juxtaposed in mere moments to an inferiority complex of the lowest place possible, extreme and total lack of confidence combined with extreme self consciousness.

The constant, never ending shift between these two states of mind creates extreme confusion, it's like constantly caught in a whirlwind, essentially living two alternate personalities. Would that define having a true split personality; it makes me wonder...Am I really one of the two, both or neither. The Answer Only Lies in Time.

Having completely lost a true sense of Identity which would therefore include MY Reality, or in other words, Helplessly living a literal Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Existence; Has entirely twisted my perception of the world and has absolutely changed the way I interact with others; Again from one end of the spectrum to the other, even Socially. Don't Let you in because my dreams are so hollow... Seemingly for now until randomly in an instant, those same dreams will be stronger than concrete, be entirely realistic, not to mention the fact that the wholehearted belief that I've Actually Almost Accomplished those dreams, filled with Delusions of Grandeur; in which anything or everything is indescribably simple to achieve.

These Egomaniacal, almost manic moments allow creativity to flourish and flow out into the universe like one incredibly Beautiful River. Productiveness Peaks to an all time high, surpassing 100 percent while this state of being constitutes my reality. The Artistic Release of Anything at All even, is fulfilling, especially for feeling completely cut off Artistically or poetically for so many years up until this BLESSING or CURSE has recently been forced on me to Acknowledge and ACCEPT.